Dear FDA:

I guess I just don't understand how things like this can happen and it is allowed to happen. I had never heard of this happening before, but I am glad I know now. This needs to stop, as well as how we treat calves to get veal.

What we should be doing is treating animals better than we treat all of the materialistic things we "treasure" so much. Where would humans be if they were not around. Last I knew we need food to live and where do we get our food?, but from the one species we treat so horribly. Instead we should be down on our knees thankful they are around. Next time you sit down to eat your meal, think about what happened to that animal in order for you to have your food.

I can't even believe the FDA needs people to write to them and help push the petition under docket #98P-0203/CP through instead of using their own good judgment for what is best. Maybe we need some new people in the department with some compassion!

Sincerely,

Lisa T. Skardinski

Dear FDA,

Forced molting of hens used in egg production is cruel to the birds and increases the spread of Salmonella enteritidis infection. Please grant the petition, filed under docket #98P-0203/CP, that would eliminate this practice.
